

BELIEVE MANY NOTABLES LOST IN SINKING OF LINER

Henry B. Harris, of Klaw & Erlanger Firm, Was Passenger.

Henry B. Harris, who leaped into prominence in the New York theatrical field only about half a dozen years ago as manager and producer, was, nevertheless, a veteran of many years' standing before metropolitan fame came to him, and is a member of an old theatrical family.

He was born in St. Louis December 1, 1866. His father, William Harris, a theatrical manager of note, is now associated with the firm of Klaw & Erlanger. The son received his education at the public schools in that city and later in Boston, to which city his parents moved while he was yet a boy. It was in the Massachusetts capital that Harris got his first training as a theatrical man, becoming connected with the famous old Howard Athenaeum there. He remained identified with that house for several years, leaving it to become a partner in the firm of Rich & Harris for many years active in the theatrical history of Boston. It was during his association with this firm that he laid the foundations of his future success by a number of highly successful ventures. Among the stars whom he managed in a number of successful plays at this time were May Irwin, Pete Doolley and Mrs. Langtry.

He also produced "The Climbers," with Amelia Bingham in the principal feminine role, and the success of this play went far toward paving the way for Harris's coming to New York. After launching Robert Edson on his starting career, Harris became manager of the Hudson Theatre, in West Forty-fourth street, in 1903, a position which he held continuously ever since.

He acquired the Hackett Theatre in 1906, and soon after won one of the biggest victories of his whole career with Charles Klein's "The Lion and the Mouse," which was played by several companies throughout the United States for several years, and brought money and reputation to its producer. Subsequent Harris successes were "The Traveling Salesman" and "The Third Degree." Recently Mr. Harris had no less than sixteen companies on tour during a single season.

He is president of the Henry B. Harris Company and the National Producing Managers of America.

ARCHIBALD GRACIE ON LINER; WIFE MISSING.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Archibald Gracie, one of the Titanic's passengers, was well known in Washington and New York society. His wife has recently attracted attention by leaving town to avoid service of a subpoena in connection with the lunacy trial of Mrs. H. C. Gage, a sister of Prosecutor W. J. Mott, of Essex county, N. J. Mrs. Gage was arrested after she had made threats against Charles J. Bell, president of the American Security and Trust Company, and in court testified that Mrs. Gracie had informed her of Mr. Bell's efforts to thwart her social ambitions.

Miss Edith Gracie said yesterday she did not know her mother's whereabouts. Mr. Gracie is the son of Colonel Archibald Gracie.

MANY PASSENGERS BOOED FOR LINER'S RETURN TP

NEW YORK, April 16.—It was stated at the White Star offices here yesterday that 700 passengers had booked first-class staterooms on the Titanic for her first sailing from this port, which was scheduled for next Saturday. In the second-class 500 berths had been engaged, and more than 1,200 passages in the steerage.

OTHER NOTABLES ON TITANIC'S LONG LIST.

Frederick K. Seward was a member of the law firm of Curtis, Mallet, Prevot & Coit, of 30 Broad street, and had been to Europe on business for his firm. He was graduated from Columbia University in 1890, being a prominent member of the Glee Club during his college days. He is married and lives at 42 West 112th street. He is a brother of Dr. J. Perry Seward, of New York city.

Henry Sleeper Harper was about 42 years old and lives at 131 East Twenty-first street. He is the son of Joseph Wesley Harper, a member of the old firm of Harper & Brothers, which gave way in 1900 to the present publishing house of that name.

Karl H. Behr, one of the foremost tennis players in this country, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Behr, of 77 Madison avenue. He was a lawyer at 40 Wall street, having been admitted to the bar soon after his graduation from Yale in 1903. Mr. Behr while a Yale student was one of the foremost tennis players, and has been prominent ever since in most of the big championship events, having competed in several national championship tournaments. He was a member of one of the Davis Cup teams.

John Bradley Cummings, a member of the brokerage firm of Cummings & Mackwald, 38 Wall Street, came to New York city ten years ago from Boston, where he was brought up and where he held a position with Estabrook & Co. Mr. Cummings, who was with him, was Miss Florence B. Thayer.

POSLAM IS WITHOUT EQUAL FOR ECZEMA

Untold embarrassment and torture from eczema—that distressing and disfiguring malady—may be avoided by the prompt use of the one efficient, modern, healing remedy, Poslam.

Without doubt Poslam has cured more skin diseases than any remedy ever offered for these ills. The worst cases of all eczemas, acne, psoriasis, herpes, tetter, piles, salt rheum, skin-itch, scaly scalp, barbers' and every form of itch, yield to it readily, itching being stopped at once. Eczemas such as pimples, red noses and inflamed skin disappear, the complexion being cleared overnight.

Riker's, Petty's, Smith's and all druggists sell Poslam (50 cents) and POSLAM SOAP, the beautifying skin soap (25 cents).

For free sample of Poslam write to the Emergency Laboratory, 22 West 25th Street, New York City.

TWO SURVIVORS OF TITANIC DISASTER.

Mrs. W. E. Carter.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor.

BENJ. GUGGENHEIM ONE OF FAMOUS HOUSE.

Benjamin Guggenheim was born in Philadelphia October 26, 1865, the fifth of the seven sons of Meyer Guggenheim, founder of the famous house of M. Guggenheim & Sons, who came to America from Switzerland in 1848. Benjamin Guggenheim married Miss Florentia Seligman, daughter of James Seligman, the banker of New York. There are three daughters.

When Benjamin Guggenheim was 20 years old he was sent to Leadville, Colo., by his father to take charge of the elder Guggenheim's mining interests, which at that time began to be enormously productive. He had been in Leadville but a short time when he recognized the possibilities in the smelting business, and it was his keen foresight that started the Guggenheim family in that business—a business that has made a greater part of their vast fortune perhaps than any one other of the various branches of industry in which they have engaged. The first smelting plant was built at Pueblo, and Benjamin Guggenheim took charge of that, conducting it with such success that the family withdrew entirely from commercial business and devoted their energy to the smelting industry.

This success in Colorado led to the building of plants at Aguascalientes and Monterey, Mex., and an immense refining plant at Perth Amboy, N. J. Benjamin Guggenheim managed the latter plant for several years.

NEW CONCERN WILL LOSE. HEAVILY IN WINE CARGO.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The James P. Regan Importing Company, of which James P. Regan, proprietor of the Hotel Knickerbocker, is the owner, will lose heavily in wines which are a part of the Titanic's cargo. The importing company has just started business and handles rare wines.

Mr. Regan is in Europe buying for the company and made his first shipment of vintage wines by the big liner. In the consignment for Mr. Regan was also a collection of art objects for the Hotel Knickerbocker, and a number of oil paintings, the property of the hotel company. It could not be learned last night what the value of the shipment is, but it will be large.

TWO NEGROES ARRAIGNED.

Two negroes were arraigned in the First Precinct Court yesterday. Joseph Dickerson was held in $500 bail for the Grand Jury on a charge of assault and battery made by his wife, and a fine of $10 was imposed against Leonard Perkins for creating a disturbance in his home, 121 Academy street.

Frank D. Millet, Artist and Writer. Painted Newark Canvases.

Frank D. Millet, a noted artist and correspondent, was born at Mattapoisett, Mass., in 1845. His adventurous temperament led him to enlist as a drummer boy at the beginning of the Civil War. He was soon promoted to the position of assistant in the surgeons' corps, which he held for a year seeing a great deal of active service. When the war was over, he returned to Massachusetts and entered Harvard. On graduation he went into journalism, joining the staff of the Boston Advertiser. Later he was city editor of the Boston Courier and head of the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.

In 1871 he took up the study of art at the Royal Academy in Antwerp, where he won a much-coveted prize in his first year. His success obtained for him the position of secretary to Charles Francis Adams when the latter was appointed commissioner to the Vienna exposition of 1873. Though only 27, Millet managed them to keep up his art studies, do his duties as secretary and report the exposition for two New York newspapers.

In 1876 he returned to his native country and got to work harder than ever. Not only did he report the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia for the Boston Advertiser, but he found time to assist John La Farge in decorating Trinity Church, Boston's most famous place of worship.

In 1877 he became war correspondent for the New York Herald in the Russo-Turkish War and acquitted himself so brilliantly that his work attracted the attention of the editors of the London Daily Mail, who appointed him their correspondent to succeed the celebrated Archibald Forbes. Millet was by the side of the Russian General Skobelev in a good part of the liveliest fighting in the war and wrote thrilling descriptions of the big events of the campaign. He also drew graphic sketches, and emerged from the war with no less than six decorations for bravery under fire.

After that he went to Paris and devoted himself for a while to serious art study. He was chosen a member of the fine arts jury of the Paris exposition in 1878. Returning to Boston, he married and settled down for a while, but in 1881 he was again on the move, making sketches for the Harpers in Europe. Soon after he settled down in Worcester-shire, England, where his home has been ever since.

In the last quarter of a century Millet became more and more widely known as an artist and his work earned for him decorations from half a dozen countries.

Among the institutions possessing canvases by Millet are the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Detroit Museum, the Union League Club, the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh and the National Gallery of New Zealand. Of late he was engaged in making mural decorations for a number of public buildings, including the State Capitol at St. Paul, Minn., the Court House at Newark, the Customs House at Baltimore and the Federal Building at Cleveland.

TWO TRENTON MEN ON ILL-FATED LINER.

TRENTON, April 16.—Washington A. Roebing, 24, a son of Charles G. Roebing Sons Company, was a passenger on the Titanic, together with Stephen Blackwell, another Trenton young man. Mr. Roebing is one of the managers of the Mercer Automobile Works of this city. He and Mr. Blackwell toured Italy, France and other countries in an auto.

Mr. Roebing was born in this city and is about 31 years of age. Two years ago he took part in one of the important auto races at Savannah, Ga., winning second place.

He went through many of the departments of the big Roebing mills before going to the Mercer Company.

CLARENCE MOORE WAS WASHINGTON BANKER.

WASHINGTON, April 16.—Clarence Moore, of 1748 Massachusetts avenue, a passenger on the Titanic, was one of the best known young men in America. He was master of hounds of the Chevy Chase Hunt, and on his visit to England from which he was returning he was said to have purchased twenty-five brace of hounds from the best packs in the north of England. His present wife was Miss Mabelle Swift, daughter of the late E. C. Swift, of Chicago. She said yesterday that her husband's trip abroad had been for pleasure.

Mr. Moore was a member of the New York Yacht Club and the Travelers' Club of Paris, besides the Metropolitan, the Chevy Chase and the Alibi clubs of Washington. Socially he was one of the best known men in Washington. He was born in Clarkburg, W. V., in 1882, and when he finished his education in Dufron College in Ontario he interested himself in the development of mineral wealth of that State, as did the late Senator Stephen B. Elkins and Henry Cassius Davis. Since 1899 Mr. Moore has lived in Washington, having business connection with the banking and brokerage firm of Hibbs & Co. of Hibbs & Co. of New York.

Mr. Moore's first wife was Alice McLaughlin, daughter of Franklin McLaughlin, of Philadelphia. She died in 1907, leaving two children, Frances Sarah Preston and Samuel Preston Moore. He married Miss Mabelle Swift on June 20, 1909. By his second marriage he has two children, Jasper and Clarence, Jr.

JAMES CLINCH SMITH WELL-KNOWN SPORTSMAN.

James Clinch Smith, a brother-in-law of the late Stanford White, was well known as a sportsman and in society circles both in New York and in England. In 1911, when he returned to this country to reopen his old home at Smithtown, L. I., Mr. Smith has spent most of his time in Paris, making frequent visits here. One of these trips brought him to New York a few days before Stanford White was shot by Harry K. Thaw, and Mr. Smith was present at the time of the tragedy. He was called upon to testify at the trial.

Sale of Silk and Cotton Petticoats

There are hundreds of petticoats shown and advertised at astonishingly low prices with all sorts of claims as to their regular worth. But no matter what the claim is for regular value, you will almost invariably find better here at regular price than at the so-called special price. Try us and be convinced. We will say, however, that the petticoat is used in most stores as a trade-attracting magnet and carries very little, if any, profit. This will be a special sale and the prices will be below those regularly prevailing.
